Kennedy Back From Hectic Florida Trip

Appeal Sounded For Cubans To Oust Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy settled back into his work day routine today, but only temporarily, after a hectic Florida trip capped by an appeal to the Cuban people to overthrow the Castro regime.

Kennedy, who will be taking off again Thursday on an equally fast-paced Texas trip, promised Monday night that Americans will fight to block any future Communist takeover in the hemisphere.

And the President said the United States is ready to help Cubans establish a progressive government without fear of a return to the economic and political system of the old Batista dictatorship.

Kennedy's significant foreign policy address climaxed a five-day speech tour of Tampa and Miami.

The President's whirlwind schedule was reminiscent of the itinerary for a political campaign. He will spend three days touring the major cities of Texas.

In White House parlance, Kennedy's trips to Florida and Texas, the South's two most populous states, must be classed as "nonpolitical." However, few observers doubted that the mounting tempo of presidential travel was anything but a warmup for the 1964 election campaign.

During his day in Florida, Kennedy chose his audiences with care: a general public gathering at Tampa; separate appearances before business and labor groups in that city; a frankly partisan airport pep rally in Miami, and the hemisphere policy talk at the Miami Beach convention of the Inter-American Press Association.

Kennedy lost Florida to Republican Richard M. Nixon by a slim margin in 1960. Texas last time was in the Kennedy column by an equally precarious edge.

Kennedy, in his discussion of Cuba, said that "nothing is possible" in the way of Cuban-American cooperation so long as the Caribbean island is "a victim of foreign imperialism, an instrument of the policy of others, a weapon in an effort dictated by external powers to subvert the other American republics."

If things were different, he said, everything would be possible.

He said that "once Cuban sovereignty has been restored" the United States "will extend the hand of friendship and assistance to a Cuba whose political and economic institutions have been shaped by the will of the Cuban people."

White House sources agreed that Kennedy's statement was an invitation to the Cuban populace to overthrow Fidel Castro.

Kennedy was even more direct in restating policy toward any attempts by future Castros to seize power in Latin America. He said:

"The American states must be ready to come to the aid of any government requesting aid to prevent a takeover linked to the policies of foreign communism rather than to an internal desire for change. My country is prepared to do this."

AFL-CIO Gears for '64 Election

NEW YORK (AP) — The AFL-CIO geared up today for a campaign to galvanize millions of union members to vote for organized labor's friends in next year's elections.

The 167-member general board of the AFL-CIO, in announcing plans for its grass-roots drive, criticized state laws that make it difficult to register to vote.

A spokesman said the AFL-CIO will fight voter literacy tests that are unfairly applied, and said there are examples in some Northern states, including New York, as well as in the South.

He said the AFL-CIO plan to name "registrars" in every local union is also aimed at counteracting purges of voter lists. He said George M. Romney of Michigan was "the one governor who has reprogressed" in this field.

Romney, sometimes mentioned as a possible Republican presidential nominee, was criticized for a recent Michigan law requiring voters to re-register every two years instead of four.

In outlining the AFL-CIO's political plan, a spokesman said it is aimed at registering millions of persons who don't vote, most of them in labor wards. Some $750,000 will be spent on the registration drive, a spokesman said.

World Will Little Note?

GETTYSBURG, Pa., (AP) — One hundred years ago today, Abraham Lincoln, in one of the great speeches in the history of mankind, told the people of a war-torn nation:

"Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal."

"Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation or any nation so conceived and so dedicated can long endure. We are met on a great battle field of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field as a final resting-place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

"But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate — we cannot consecrate — we cannot hallow — this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

U.S. Idle Case Debated

Seriousness Of Status Eyed

NEW YORK (AP) — The head of Chrysler Corp. says his company has gone about as far as it wants to go in replacing men with machines.

"We've already over-automated in some ways," says Chrysler President Lynn Townsend. "It reduces our flexibility."

Accordingly, he said, new plants will need as many men as existing plants. Many other industrialists, he guessed, are reaching a similar conclusion.

This is fresh testimony on one side of a debate on whether unemployment is likely to get dangerously worse.

Recent interviews with businessmen and economists uncovered a strong feeling that unemployment won't increase materially and that the present burden may not be so heavy after all.

"An economy as strong as ours can carry the present load (about 4½ per cent of the labor force jobless) without structural damage if the politicians will merely keep quiet," says Vice President Benjamin Stacey of Boston's First National Bank.

Many say statistics are misleading. Breadwinner joblessness is low, second-income earners account for many job seekers. Voluntary job-switching could be greater than presumed. Employment is probably almost as "full" as it realistically can be, they say.

There is a vigorous dissent view.

W. J. Bassett, executive officer of the Los Angeles County Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, says "If we don't do something pretty soon two-thirds of us will be supporting the other third."

Many see a growing unemployment among the young unskilled that threatens dangerous racial and social upheavals. It could also, they warn, destroy this decade's brightest economic hope: the push that's supposed to come when the postwar baby crop starts buying houses, cars and appliances.

Navy Visits Siberia

YOOSUA, Japan (AP) — The U.S. 7th Fleet oceanographic survey ship Rehoboth returned today after a four-day good-will visit to the Soviet Siberian port of Nahodka, the U.S. Navy announced.

Rehoboth, a 10,000-ton ship, was part of a fleet of U.S. Navy ships that visited Nahodka from Oct. 15 to 19.

The visit was part of a series of good-will visits by U.S. Navy ships to the Soviet Far East.

The U.S. Navy announced that the ship will return to Japan on Nov. 22.

New Deluxe Motel Planned South of City on Route 23

Pickaway Motel Corp., a new Ohio firm, announced today that a 50-unit deluxe motel will be constructed on a five-acre site south of Circleville on Route 23.

The site is 1½ miles south of the city. Plans call for an additional 60 units in the future. Initial construction will include a large restaurant with complete dining facilities.

Gail W. Wacker of Lancaster and David R. W. Carruthers of Canal Winchester are the incorporators of Pickaway Motel Corp. They have acquired a franchise from Quality Courts Motels, Inc., of Daytona Beach, Fla., one of the larger motel chains in the nation.

The Quality Courts Motel is to be built on land owned by the Wacker Development Co. The site is directly across Route 23 from a proposed housing complex being planned by the Miller Development Co.

Construction is scheduled to start in January following completion of blueprints by A. H. Moellenkamp Engineers of Lancaster. The completion date is set for this June.

Wacker and Carruthers said they also are in the process of obtaining leases for a service station to be built in the same area along with the motel.

The motel will require 400 feet of frontage out of nearly 4,000 feet owned by Wacker Development Co. The remainder has been earmarked for future business expansion.

Wacker and Carruthers said Quality Courts represent the finest in motels. They noted that the sunburst sign marks a motel that meets and maintains high uniform standards by passing frequent, rigid inspections.

The motel, to be erected on the west side of Route 23, will be a two-story brick facility under one roof. Wacker said sufficient land area will remain after construction of the first 50 units for the planned addition of the other 60 units.

According to the Pickaway Motel Corp. spokesmen, the restaurant will offer dining facilities for 350 people. One section of the motel will house four meeting or banquet rooms. Two of the first floor rooms will be

Prince Plans To Cancel Aid

U.S. 'Imperialism' Is Hit by Chief

PHNOMPENH, Cambodia (AP)—Thousands of cheering Cambodians yelled their approval today for Prince Norodom Sihanouk's plan to end all U.S. aid by the end of the year. "Go home, Yankee" posters bloomed as the prince, Cambodia's chief of state, assembled his supporters for a mass meeting.

Sihanouk last week called for an end to the $31-million annual U.S. military and economic aid programs by Dec. 31 unless the United States uses its influence to halt hostile radio broadcasts from South Viet Nam and Thailand by Cambodian rebel groups.

Sihanouk charged that the station operated with the blessing of U.S. authorities. American officials in Viet Nam have disclaimed responsibility for the broadcasts. They say they believe the clandestine station is operating inside Cambodia near the South Vietnamese border and moves frequently.

Sihanouk said he was terminating American aid to end "economic imperialism." U.S. officials have expressed concern with his recent flirtation with Red China.

In Washington Monday, State Department spokesman Richard I. Phillips said the United States is awaiting "further clarification of the Cambodians' position" before taking any action on the aid program.

THF DENSE fog which blanketed Pickaway County early this morning was the apparent cause of only one accident, a fender bender just northwest of Circleville. . . .

It did serve to slow traffic on the highways and persons who did not realize it was so foggy before leaving home were hard pressed to make it to their destinations on time.

Turncoat G! Is Accused Of Gunplay

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Lowell Skinner, 32, Korean War turncoat, was charged today with assault with a deadly weapon in connection with a shooting involving two teen-age boys in a woman's apartment.

A shot that Skinner fired Monday night in the south Akron apartment of a convict's wife narrowly missed the youths, police said. The ex-American soldier fled and was arrested later in his car. He was carrying a loaded western-type .22-caliber pistol.

At a hearing in Akron Municipal Court this morning, Judge J. P. Riddle asked Skinner: "Have you seen a psychiatrist?"

"I don't feel I need to," Skinner answered.

"Well there's always hope for you in spite of what's been said about you," the judge added. "You still have a legal right and better see a lawyer."

The hearing was continued until Friday and bond set at $2,500.

Catholic Clerics Hear Billy Graham

BELMONT, N. C. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham, making his first speech at a Catholic institution, says the spirit of Christian unity "is the beginning of something so fantastic it could change all of Christendom and will affect you, your children and their children."

Graham, a Southern Baptist, spoke to 1,500 priests, novices and seminarians at Belmont Abbey College. He was invited to the school after author Harry Golden, a Jew, introduced him to the college president.

Graham said the Vatican Ecumenical Council, and the reform started by the late Pope John XXIII, have produced a "new understanding that might bring a great Christian revolution."

portion of that field as a final resting-place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

"But, in a larger sense, we cannot dedicate — we cannot consecrate — we cannot hallow — this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is for us the living, rather, to be

Seriousness Of Status Eyed

NEW YORK (AP) — The head of Chrysler Corp. says his company has gone about as far as it wants to go in replacing men with machines.

"We've already over-automated in some ways," says Chrysler President Lynn Townsend. "It reduces our flexibility."

Accordingly, he said, new plants will need as many men as existing plants. Many other industrialists, he guessed, are reaching a similar conclusion.

This is a fresh testimony on one side of a debate on whether unemployment is likely to get dangerously worse.

Recent interviews with businessmen and economists uncovered a strong feeling that unemployment won't increase materially and that the present burden may not be so heavy after all.

"An economy as strong as ours can carry the present load (about 4½ per cent of the labor force jobless) without structural damage if the politicians will merely keep quiet," says Vice President Benjamin Stacey of Boston's First National Bank.

Many say statistics are misleading. Breadwinner joblessness is low, second-income wives account for many job seekers. Voluntary job-switching could be greater than presumed. Employment is probably almost as "full" as it realistically can be, they say.

There is a vigorous dissent view.

W. J. Bassett, executive officer of the Los Angeles County Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, says "If we don't do something pretty soon two-thirds of us will be supporting the other third."

Many see a growing unemployment among the young unskilled that threatens dangerous racial and social upheavals. It could also, they warn, destroy this decade's brightest economic hope: the push that's supposed to come when the postwar baby crop starts buying houses, cars and appliances.

New Deluxe Motel Planned South of City on Route 23

Pickaway Motel Corp., a new Ohio firm, announced today that a 50-unit deluxe motel will be constructed on a five-acre site south of Circleville on Route 23.

The site is 1½ miles south of the city. Plans call for an additional 60 units in the future. Initial construction will include a large restaurant with complete dining facilities.

Gail W. Wacker of Lancaster and David R. W. Carruthers of Canal Winchester are the incorporators of Pickaway Motel Corp. They have acquired a franchise from Quality Courts Motels, Inc., of Daytona Beach, Fla., one of the larger motel chains in the nation.

The Quality Courts Motel is to be built on land owned by the Wacker Development Co. The site is directly across Route 23 from a proposed housing complex being planned by the Miller Development Co.

Construction is scheduled to start in January following completion of blueprints by A. H. Moellenkamp Engineers of Lancaster. The completion date is set for this June.

Wacker and Carruthers said they also are in the process of obtaining leases for a service station to be built in the same area along with the motel.

The motel will require 400 feet of frontage out of nearly 4,000 feet owned by Wacker Development Co. The remainder has been earmarked for future business expansion.

Wacker and Carruthers said Quality Courts represent the finest in motels. They noted that the sunburst sign marks a motel that meets and maintains high uniform standards by passing frequent, rigid inspections.

The motel, to be erected on the west side of Route 23, will be a two-story brick facility under one roof. Wacker said sufficient land area will remain after construction of the first 50 units for the planned addition of the other 60 units.

According to the Pickaway Motel Corp. spokesmen, the restaurant will offer dining facilities for 350 people. One section of the motel will house four meeting or banquet rooms. Two of the first floor rooms will be

Arctic Air Mass Moves Into North

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold air spread into eastern Montana and headed into sections of North Dakota and Minnesota today but fairly seasonal temperatures prevailed in most other parts of the nation.

The flow of arctic air from Canada dropped temperatures into the teens in parts of the cold belt. Readings during the night ranged from near 15 north of the Montana border to about 10 below zero in northern Saskatchewan.

Sharp drops in temperatures were forecast for northern Minnesota and North Dakota, with readings near zero Wednesday morning.

In other parts of the country, temperatures were in the 30s and 40s in most of the central section, in the 50s and 60s along the East Coast and in the 40s and 50s along the West Coast.

Fair weather was reported in most areas but clouds covered sections in the Northeast, the upper Ohio Valley and southwestern across parts of the Southern Plains.

Windy, wet weather prevailed in sections of the Pacific Northwest. Fairly locally heavy rain doused areas in the Northeast and in south central sections.

Barry Agrees: Politics Requires 'Acting'

WASHINGTON (AP) — In her latest movie, actress Polly Berry plays the first woman president of the United States.

Polly was taking a ribbing about the role at a luncheon of the circus "Saints and Sinners" when she interjected:

At a nearby table, a guest nodded agreement.

He was Sen. Barry Goldwater.

Prince Plans To Cancel Aid

U.S. 'Imperialism' Is Hit by Chief

PHNOMPENH, Cambodia (AP)—Thousands of cheering Cambodians yelled their approval today for Prince Norodom Sihanouk's plan to end all U.S. aid by the end of the year. "Go home, Yankee" posters bloomed as the prince, Cambodia's chief of state, assembled his supporters for a mass meeting.

Sihanouk last week called for an end to the $31-million annual U.S. military and economic aid programs by Dec. 31 unless the United States uses its influence to halt hostile radio broadcasts from South Viet Nam and Thailand by Cambodian rebel groups.

Sihanouk charged that the station operated with the blessing of U.S. authorities. American officials in Viet Nam have disclaimed responsibility for the broadcasts. They say they believe the clandestine station is operating inside Cambodia near the South Vietnamese border and moves frequently.

Sihanouk said he was terminating American aid to end "economic imperialism" U.S. officials have expressed concern with his recent flirtation with Red China.

In Washington Monday, State Department spokesman Richard L. Phillips said the United States is awaiting "further clarification of the Cambodians' position" before taking any action on the aid program.

Turncoat GI Is Accused Of Gunplay

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Lowell Skinner, 32, Korean War turncoat, was charged today with assault with a deadly weapon in connection with a shooting involving two teen-age boys in a woman's apartment.

A shot that Skinner fired Monday night in the south Akron apartment of a convict's wife narrowly missed the youths, police said. The ex-American soldier died and was arrested later in his car. He was carrying a loaded western-type .22-caliber pistol.

At a hearing in Akron Municipal Court this morning, Judge J. P. Riddle asked Skinner: "Have you seen a psychiatrist?"

"I don't feel I need to," Skinner answered.

"Well there's always hope for you in spite of what's been said about you," the judge added. "You still have a legal right and better see a lawyer."

The hearing was continued until Friday and bond set at $2,500.

Wacker and Carruthers said the motel will have all modern conveniences, including a swimming pool, television, air-conditioning and the latest direct-dialing long distance telephone facilities — one of the latest innovations in motel service.

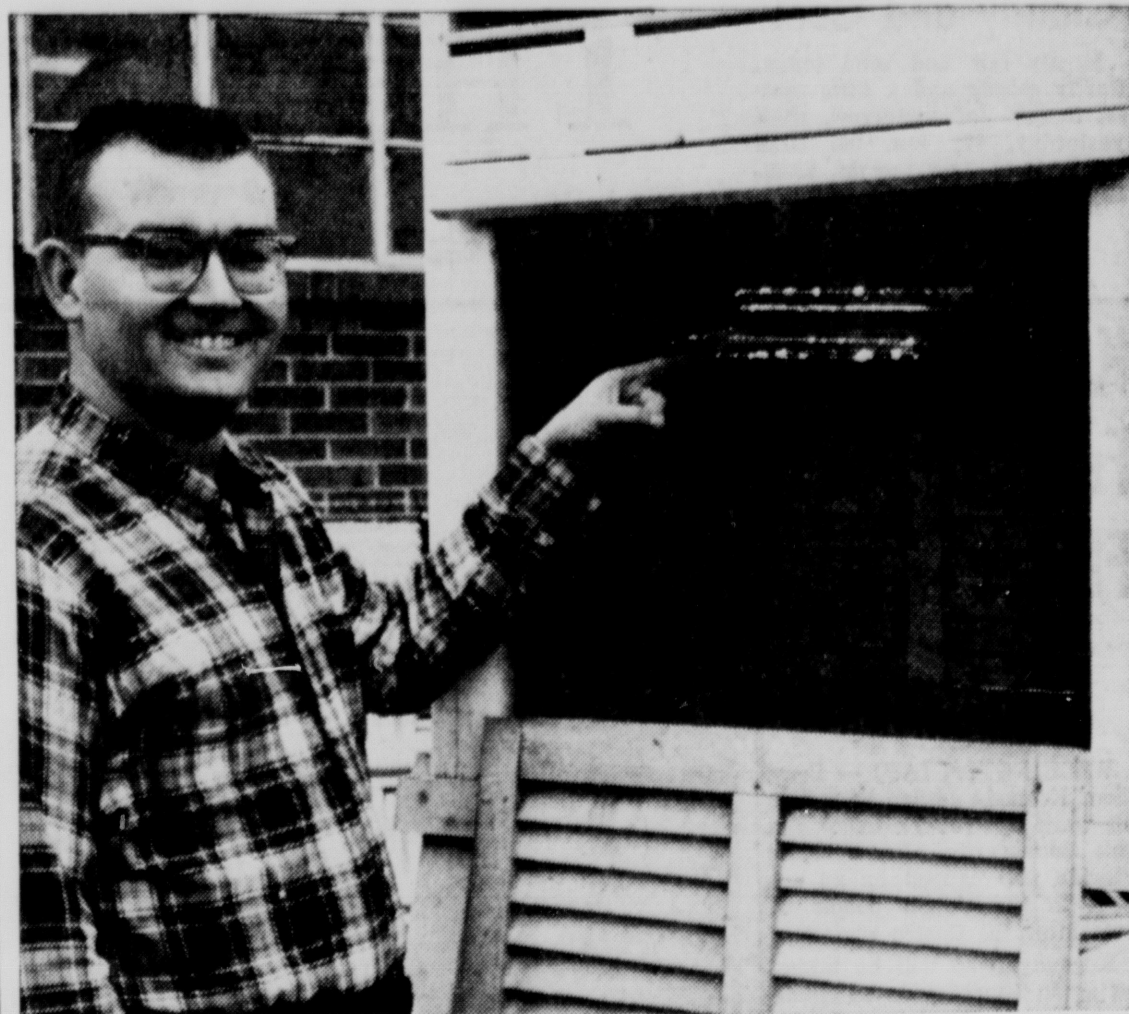

Earth moving on the motel-business site by the D. E. Goodchild Co. of Circleville is scheduled for completion this week. This phase of the project was started in early October.

"Circleville and its surrounding area is one of the fastest growing industrial areas in Ohio," Carruthers said. "We believe it needs the type of facility we will construct."

The spokesmen said they had thoroughly studied every aspect of the industrial-business needs of this area before deciding on construction of the motel and restaurant.

"We found," Wacker explained, "that not only is there a need for this type of facility locally, but that traffic on Routes 22 and 23 is continuing to grow. The addition of this facility can not help but bring additional trade to all area businesses."

Wacker also said his survey showed a need for a large eating establishment, as well as for meeting rooms and banquet facilities.

Following the game, the formal program will open with a welcome by Pickaway County Bar Assn. president, Allan Berger, and a district business meeting. The business agenda includes election of a district executive committee. Harry Reese, Wellston, is the present committeeman.

A panel discussion of 1963 Ohio legislation will close the afternoon program. Panelists include Jack W. Folkerth, Stuart D. Eagleson and State Bar Legislative and Research Council, Fred Puckett, all of Columbus.

Local Resident Fined for Assault

Charles Rutter, 358 Long Ave., entered a plea of guilty to assault and battery charges filed in Circleville Municipal Court by Mary Ann Rutter.

Judge Sterling Lamb levied a fine of $50 and costs, suspending $25 of the fine. He also handed Rutter a suspended 30-day jail sentence and placed him on probation for one year.

Two Named To Posts by Commission

Two appointments to board posts were made yesterday by the Pickaway County Board of Commissioners.

Kenneth Shepler, Route 1, was named a member of the Pickaway County Child Welfare Board. Dr. Robert N. Phillips, Lincoln Drive, was appointed to Berger Hospital's Board of Governors as a county representative.

Shepler will fill the unexpired term of Harry Melvin, Route 3. The term ends Dec. 31, 1964.

Dr. Phillips replaces Russell Palm, Route 4, whose term expired Nov. 17 of this year. Dr. Phillips' post is for four years.

Other activity on the regular Monday agenda of the commission included routine payment of bills and other business. A part of the afternoon session was devoted to inspection of county roads and bridges.

Wacker and Carruthers said the motel will have all modern conveniences, including a swimming pool, television, air-conditioning and the latest direct-dialing long distance telephone facilities — one of the latest innovations in motel service.

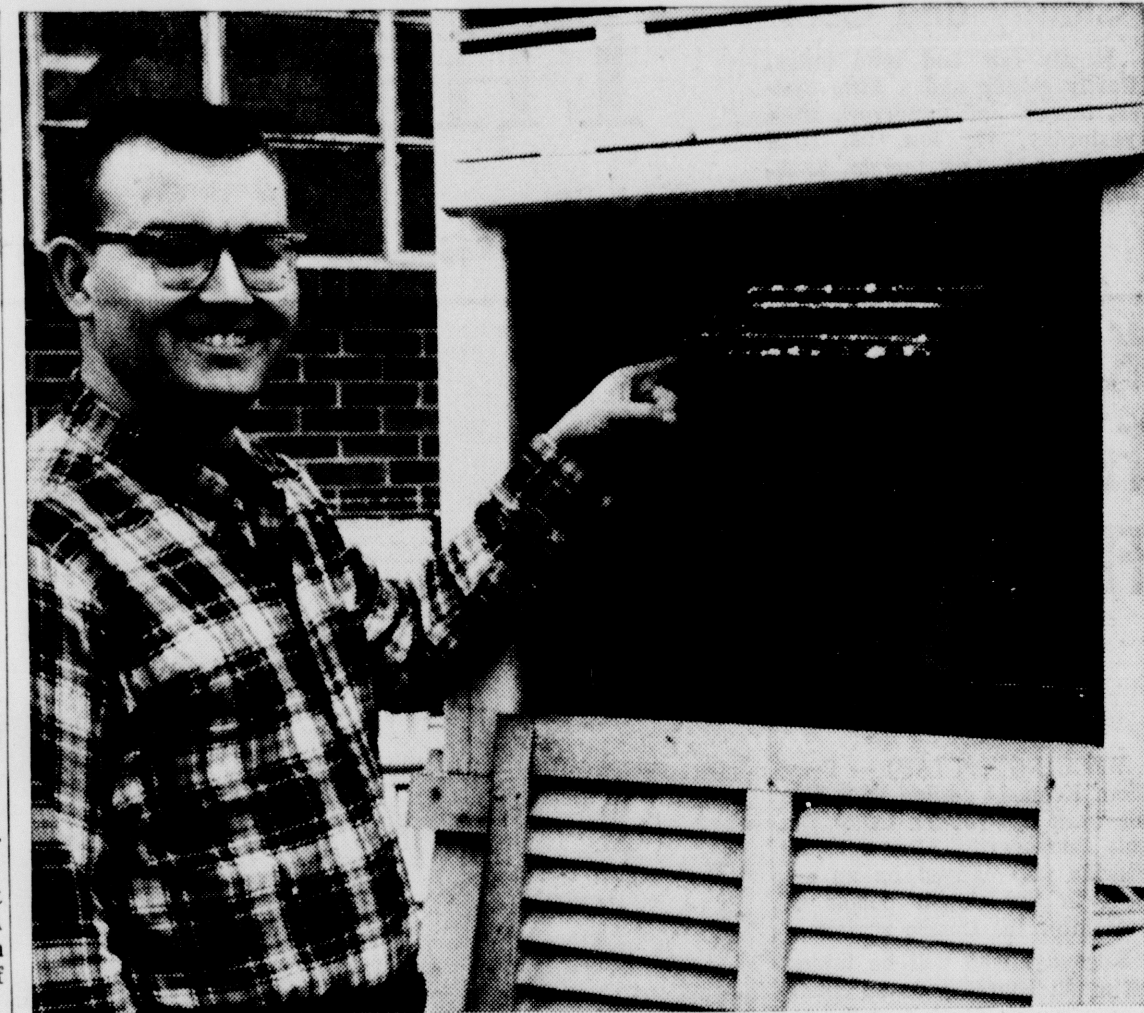

Earth moving on the motel-business site by the D. E. Goodchild Co. of Circleville is scheduled for completion this week. This phase of the project was started in early October.

"Circleville and its surrounding area is one of the fastest growing industrial areas in Ohio," Carruthers said. "We believe it needs the type of facility we will construct."

The spokesmen said they had thoroughly studied every aspect of the industrial-business needs of this area before deciding on construction of the motel and restaurant.

"We found," Wacker explained, "that not only is there a need for this type of facility locally, but that traffic on Routes 22 and 23 is continuing to grow. The addition of this facility can not help but bring additional trade to all area businesses."

Wacker also said his survey showed a need for a large eating establishment, as well as for meeting rooms and banquet facilities.

FAIR WEATHER FRIEND — Paul Dean, Route 2, Ashville, may very well be known as a "fair weather friend" before long. Dean, weighmaster at the Pickaway Grain Co., recently assumed the job of official weatherman for the Circleville area. He received the appointment from the U.S. Weather Bureau, Columbus. Here he points out the temperature gauges used in his daily tasks.

District Bar Assn. Meeting Is Planned Here Saturday

Attorneys and judges from 11 southern Ohio counties will meet at the Circleville BPO Elks Lodge Saturday for the annual meeting of Ohio State Bar Association District Eight.

The program will open at the Elks Lodge on a relaxed note with the attorneys from the district invited to sit and enjoy refreshments while listening to the Ohio State-Michigan football game.

Following the game, the formal program will open with a welcome by Pickaway County Bar Assn. president, Allan Berger, and a district business meeting. The business agenda includes election of a district executive committee member, Harry Reese, Wellston, is the present committee member.

A panel discussion of 1963 Ohio legislation will close the afternoon program. Panelists include Jack W. Folkert, Stuart D. Eagleson and State Bar Legislative and Research Council, Fred Puckett, all of Columbus.

A SOCIAL hour following the program and the evening banquet will be held at the Pickaway Country Club.

State Bar President, Erie H. Bridgewater Jr., Athens and Ohio Supreme Court Judge Rankin M. Gibson are the evening speakers. Following remarks by Bridgewater, Judge Gibson will deliver a talk entitled "United States Supreme Court Potpourri."

William Radcliff, 630 Ridgewood Drive, recently appointed as administrative assistant of the Ohio Supreme Court, will be the evening toastmaster.

State Bar District Eight encompasses Pickaway, Adams, Brown, Gallia, Highland, Jackson, Lawrence, Pike, Ross, Scioto and Vinton Counties.

Cut Is Treated

Connie Bauman, 30, of 114 Mingo St., lacerated her right hand on a piece of glass at her home yesterday. She received emergency treatment at Berger Hospital and was released.

Service Station Entry Discovered

Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Warren Straley, while making a routine patrol of the county last night, noticed the window of the Certified Service Station north of Circleville was broken.

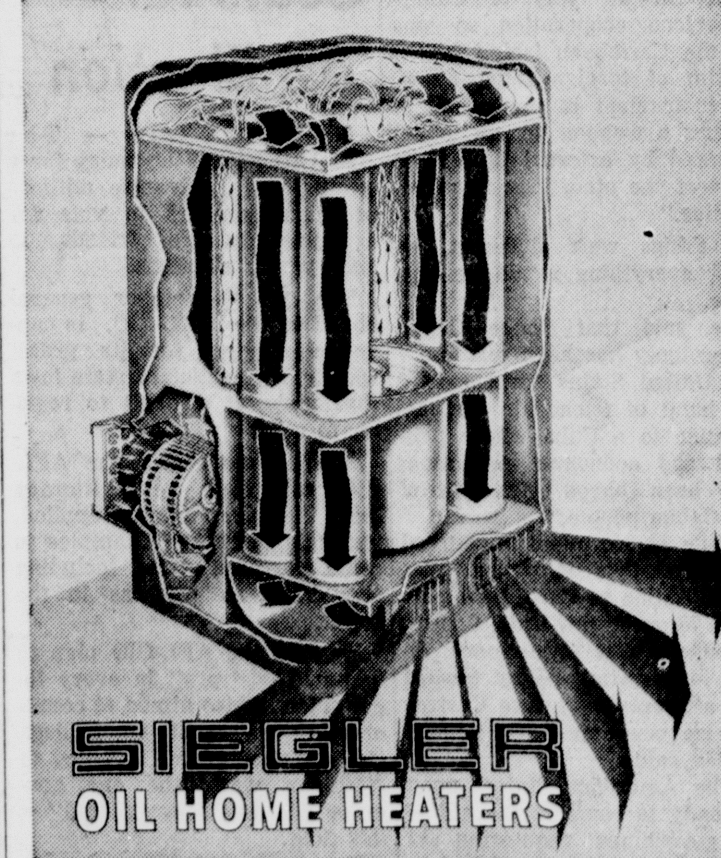

He notified William Goorey, manager of the station. Subsequent investigation disclosed that the station had been entered and a cigarette machine forced.

An undetermined amount of money, cigarettes, plus several quarts of oil was missing.

Job Subject Controversy Growing Hot

NEW YORK (AP)—The more the economy flexes its muscles the more controversial becomes the subject of jobs. This is a present day switch from the traditional linking of good times with lots of jobs. Just now it doesn't seem to work that way.

The paradox: employment climbs to a record, but the clamor over lack of jobs grows. And labor prepares to make this a prime issue in next year's contract negotiations.

President Kennedy tells the AFL-CIO leaders that the cure of today's ills lies in cutting taxes to create jobs by increasing demand for goods and funds for investment.

The labor organization's president, George Meany, tells the same convention that automation is a curse that "could bring us to a national catastrophe" and implies that tax cut benefits are too delayed and even too unproved to be relied upon.

Management insists that automation will make more jobs in the long run, just as previous phases of mechanization did. Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York takes the middle ground that automation is a mixed blessing — bringing both good and bad.

Unions seek shorter weeks to spread the work. Management stresses greater unit production to hold down labor costs — and thereby, union critics say, cutting job opportunity still further.

Civil rights emphasis switches from the desegregation of lunch counters to more jobs for racial minorities. The job issue becomes more critical even than the makeup of school enrollment.

Social scientists stress that juvenile delinquency and school dropouts are linked and that both are part of the over-all job problem. They see as the basic trouble the drop in demand for the unskilled and the emphasis on the highly trained.

And at the other end of the age scale, the cutoff age for getting a new job seems to drop each year. Older citizens grow bitter about it — even as life number of older, and unemployed, Americans multiplies.

At the same time there are jobs going begging, mostly those calling for more skill and training than the average citizen has, but also those in lines of work that are unattractive for various reasons.

And the changing job picture has still other sides. Production workers totals are slow to expand, but paper-work employees multiply on many payrolls. And the service industries grow both in size and variety.

3 Teenagers Held In Burglary Case

NEWARK, Ohio (AP)—Three Maryland teenagers were bound over to the Licking County Grand Jury under $5,000 bond each Monday after being arrested early Sunday on burglary charges.

Sheriff's deputies said the trio was caught attempting to burn open a safe in an auto parts firm along U.S. 40 in Wagram, Ohio. They identified the three as David M. Richardson, 19, of Wheaton, Md., and Clark G. Bowers and Mitchell F. Wolfhope, both 19 also and from Silver Springs, Md.

The trio entered no plea when brought before Judge Harry J. Alexander in Newark Municipal Court today. They are being held in Licking County jail in lieu of bond.

Oriental Looks at Russian

Soviet Image in Asia Has Its Troubles, Too

EDITOR'S NOTE—AP special correspondent William L. Ryan has just completed a six-week swing through seven Asian nations. In the following dispatch, second of a series of three, he reports how Asians feel about the Soviet Union.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

TOKYO (AP)—The Red Chinese, Asian leaders will tell you, inspire fear. Britain and Japan are respected. Americans they say, are liked and envied but not necessarily respected. What about the Russians?

The Soviet image is having its troubles, too.

Moscow had been feared. In 1957, when its first Sputnik went up, it had, in Asian eyes, challenged what once had been considered unchallengeable — the might of the great American democracy. But as the space race drew more even, looked more like a standoff, things began to change.

Moscow, for all its demonstration of military power, seems to have lost face with the Asians. As the educated Asian—the one who counts in the continent's turbulent politics—seems to see it, Moscow has been stared down by the poverty-stricken struggling Red Chinese, who in spite of all else are, themselves Asians.

The Russians, curiously told by Peking to get out of Asia, have made points in India by opposing Chinese adventures on the Indian border. But even there, if a poll was taken, it is likely the Soviet Union would rank behind the United States, Britain and Japan.

The international political war is not a popularity contest, however, but a contest for influence, and in this, too, the Russians are slipping.

A key to the future of Southeast Asia is the fate of South Viet Nam, which curls like a caterpillar around the southeast corner of the continent. There an ideology contest for influence in all Southeast Asia is being battled out, and the Russians seem remote from it.

The reason: the Red Chinese are in a geographically dominant position. A regime like that of Ho Chi Minh in Communist North Viet Nam bordering on Red China, could hardly oppose the Red Chinese will, even if it should want to.

To get at Southeast Asia, the Russians would have to overleap Red China, which is clearly asserting its pre-eminence to exclusive interest in the area.

The Russians appear to fear a situation which might bring about massive U.S. intervention and set the stage for World War III.

The Chinese display no such fear.

The Chinese-Soviet split — ostensibly over ideology but seemingly much more involved with national interests of both big Communist nations — is having an abrasive effect upon the Soviet image in Southeast Asia.

Among the huge overseas Chinese populations in Southeast Asia, one can easily detect a feeling of satisfaction with the turn of events and with the notion that Peking has told Moscow where to head in. The overseas Chinese, whether Communist or not in their outlook, represent a potent political factor in Malaysia, Indonesia and other areas of Southeast Asia.

Communist parties over which Moscow once held undisputed sway have been torn apart by the Moscow-Peking rift. Indonesia, with the biggest Communist party in Asia outside of China, illuminates one of the consequences.

The Indonesian Communist party leadership under D. N. Aidit has been trying to keep its balance on a shaky high wire over the Soviet Peking arena. Despite a determined Soviet push into Indonesia with economic and military aid, Aidit appears to have been unable to keep his party out of the guard. The Chinese influence is too strong.

Probers Eye Accord On Cuban Refugees

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Michael A. Feighan, D - Ohio, says a House subcommittee is investigating an apparent agreement with Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro permitting him to designate 50 per cent of the Cuban refugees allowed to come to the United States.

Feighan, chairman of the House subcommittee on immigration and nationality, said testimony taken in closed session last summer disclosed such an agreement had been made in connection with the exchange of the Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners for American drugs and medicines. But he said testimony was inconclusive as to who actually negotiated the agreement with Castro.

Cornish Village Sees End to Prohibition

DOBWALLS, England (AP)—Eighty years of prohibition — unofficial but effective—ended Monday for this cornish village with the opening of the Highway Inn.

The village's Baptist chapel bought the only pub in the 1880s and closed it. Since then, the 200 villagers have had to travel three miles to buy a drink.

Despite 40 objections, the Dobwalls magistrates issued a license for the new pub.

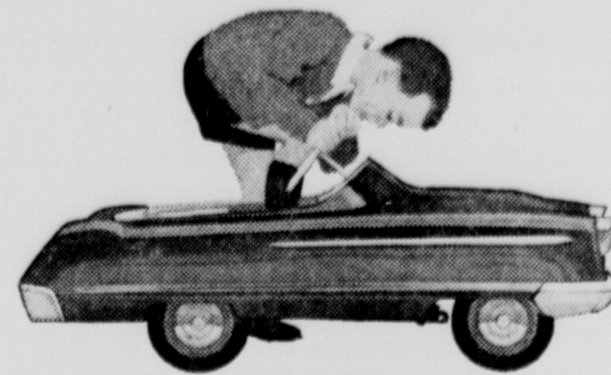

alist" cries of Indonesia's President Sukarno and his flirtations with the Russians and the Red Chinese, there are strong indications that he and the rest of his regime fear the Chinese. Sukarno's recent warm embraces with the Russians in Jakarta and his repeated statements that "Indonesia is not alone" may be intended as much for Chinese as for other ears. In Malaysia, Thailand and Burma, one seldom hears the Russians mentioned as a threat

It is the Red Chinese who occupy the attention of leaders in such countries. Next: The Red Chinese image in Asia.

Ohio's business climate is set for GROWTH!

Why do some states grow faster than others?

One big answer is: Business Climate. Does it encourage growth? Does it attract outside industry?

In Ohio, the answer is "yes" to both.

Take the case of the electric companies. In Ohio, this climate makes possible a good combination of reasonable electric prices to users—lower than in 31 states—and reasonable returns to the investors. Under this favorable climate, Ohio's investor-owned electric companies have been able to spur the growth of Ohio industry—and offer quality service that has helped bring new industry from outside. We are proud of our part in sparking growth in Ohio—and grateful that we serve in a state where the business climate is set for GROWTH!

Whoopers Could Help Selves

There are glad tidings from the Arkansas National Wildlife Refuge in Texas, where 31 whooping cranes have arrived safely after their perilous 2,500-mile journey from summer nesting grounds in Canada.

Of all dwindling bird families, the whooping crane has received the greatest attention and tender loving care, perhaps because of their spectacular appearance and blaring, trumpet-like call. The United States and Canadian governments, state and provincial wildlife agencies and private conservationists have spent millions of dollars to help them in the fight for survival.

But many persons have had the feeling right along that, if people would just give them a chance, the whoopers would eventually get around to helping themselves.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—The fairly lush flow of cash through corporate tills is one of the main reasons business executives are so confident these days.

Cash flow is different from net earnings. These profits after taxes have been setting new highs for many corporations and inspiring larger dividend payouts. But cash flow, too, has played its part—and perhaps an even more dollar and cents one—in the pleasant outpouring of extra year end payments to stockholders in many companies.

Corporate cash flow is technically defined as retained earnings plus depreciation.

But from the company treasurer's practical point of view it is what he has left over after settling operating expenses including taxes and paying current dividends.

And the sum this year is pretty big for lots of companies. All in all, cash is flowing at better than a $41-billion rate in 1963. The year before it was $39 billion. And in 1961 it was $33 billion.

This year net profits after taxes is running around $26 billion.

Cash flow is often put right to work in many ways. But it also helps to build up corporate nest eggs. And another reason so many businessmen are fairly satisfied with current positions and confident of future prospects is that today corporate cash on hand and assets readily convertible into cash totals $74 billion. That could tide business, viewed as a whole, over any economic shoals for a spell.

Retained profits—what a business has left from gross earnings after paying taxes and dividends—provides only about a fifth of today's cash flow.

More and more the actual cash is provided by depreciation. This is what can be set up on the books for the wear and tear on plant and equipment.

And this year the cash flow has been helped by the federal government's relaxed rules on figuring depreciation.

Perhaps 1.5 billion of the increased depreciation allowance is due to more liberal guidelines set forth by the tax collectors. And another billion may have been added by the 7 per cent depreciation tax incentive Congress voted to encourage investment.

Cash flow would eventually be increased if Congress passes the proposed lower tax rates on corporate income. But little effect is expected next year, since the same bill calls for a speedup in tax payments, meaning that in 1964 corporations would pay out about as much cash for taxes even if rates are lower.

They are used to indicate normal and abnormal functions of the thyroid gland, the kidneys, the liver and the blood cells.

One of the isotopes, radioactive iodine (I-131), is used to supply information about the activity and overactivity of the thyroid gland.

Another radioactive chromium (CR-51) contributes vital knowledge about the condition of the blood.

Radioactive phosphorus (P-32) has been used extensively for the study of deep tumors of the eye.

Brain tumors have been isolated by the use of radioactive isotopes when other techniques have failed to reveal them.

The condition of the blood vessels of the arms and legs have been studied by isotopes to establish their functioning capacity.

Geiger counters, X-Rays and cameras have been used to trace radio isotopes from the moment they enter the body until they are excreted.

An invaluable technique called "scanning" has utilized a variety of isotopes to accurately determine the size, the position and the outline of the thyroid gland, the kidneys and the lungs.

A newly developed camera was enthusiastically received when it was first presented at the Society of Nuclear Medicine in Montreal.

In its earliest clinical application, it has already successfully demonstrated the presence of early brain tumors by a more rapid scanning technique.

Dr. Hal O. Anger of the University of California and Drs. William G. Meyers of Ohio State University demonstrated how diagnostic studies with isotopes and this new camera can be completed within a few minutes. This replaces older scanners that sometimes took hours to reload the same findings.

With this method, a relatively new isotope, Gallium 68, is painlessly injected into the vein of the patient. The highly sensitive camera quickly records, as tiny dots, a clear picture of a tumor deeply hidden within an organ of the body. The camera

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Many people have been so absorbed with the destructive aspects of nuclear science that they have been unaware of its beneficial contributions to the health of mankind.

The diagnosis of some difficult medical problems has been made possible by radioactive substances called "isotopes." These isotopes, when taken by mouth or when painlessly injected into the blood stream, are short-lived and harmless during their stay in the body.

They are used to indicate normal and abnormal functions of the thyroid gland, the kidneys, the liver and the blood cells.

One of the isotopes, radioactive iodine (I-131), is used to supply information about the activity and overactivity of the thyroid gland.

Another radioactive chromium (CR-51) contributes vital knowledge about the condition of the blood.

Radioactive phosphorus (P-32) has been used extensively for the study of deep tumors of the eye.

Brain tumors have been isolated by the use of radioactive isotopes when other techniques have failed to reveal them.

The condition of the blood vessels of the arms and legs have been studied by isotopes to establish their functioning capacity.

Geiger counters, X-Rays and cameras have been used to trace radio isotopes from the moment they enter the body until they are excreted.

An invaluable technique called "scanning" has utilized a variety of isotopes to accurately determine the size, the position and the outline of the thyroid gland, the kidneys and the lungs.

A newly developed camera was enthusiastically received when it was first presented at the Society of Nuclear Medicine in Montreal.

In its earliest clinical application, it has already successfully demonstrated the presence of early brain tumors by a more rapid scanning technique.

Dr. Hal O. Anger of the University of California and Drs. William G. Meyers of Ohio State University demonstrated how diagnostic studies with isotopes and this new camera can be completed within a few minutes. This replaces older scanners that sometimes took hours to reload the same findings.

With this method, a relatively new isotope, Gallium 68, is painlessly injected into the vein of the patient. The highly sensitive camera quickly records, as tiny dots, a clear picture of a tumor deeply hidden within an organ of the body. The camera

Coal States Hold Key

By John Chamberlain

Don't look now, but the presidential election of 1964 could be determined by something that is almost never mentioned in relation to it. That one thing is the ancient commodity of coal.

The reason for saying this is that coal, although the efficient mines have staged a remarkable comeback, is still implicated with unemployment in the midst of prosperity. This unemployment is peculiarly associated with the very states that Kennedy must win if he is to overcome the losses he is going to have to take elsewhere in the nation.

As the pollsters and the dopesters sit over their charts, they give the Republicans the Old South, the Southwest, and much of the Middle West, on the theory that Barry Goldwater will be the candidate. They give Kennedy New England and, assuming that Rockefeller must cause bad blood between Republican conservatives and liberals in his home state, the Democrats are conceded New York as well. But the coal States Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and, to a lesser extent, Indiana and Illinois — are up for grabs. They have some of the prosperity that is the almost universal concomitant of a $600 billion annual gross national product, but they have those bad pockets of poverty that seem to persist in spite of everything.

Less than four years ago John F. Kennedy turned the frustration of one of the coal states, West Virginia, into his first great stepping stone to the White House. He was going to do wonders for West Virginia, as Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., the Kennedy "ambassador" to the caves and hillsides of the "mountain state," promised in the West Virginia primaries. But little came of the promises aside from palliatives such as the food stamp plan.

Using the magic of the FDR initials once more, Kennedy, by recently naming Franklin D. Jr. the head of a commission to restore the economy of Appalachia in a sort of "Operation Bootstrap," managed to save the governorship of Kentucky for the Democrats by a hair's breadth. But this sort of promise won't win forever.

The fact is that the miners are tired of pie in the sky. On a Coal Policy Committee junket through the coal country which I made early in October, I happened to room with an official of the United Mine Workers. I was surprised at the Olympian coolness that the official, a thoroughly class-conscious labor man, exhibited toward all the political parties, whether major or minor. He gave me to understand that his union demanded performance, not the privilege of voting for a party label. And in coal, the measure of performance is jobs.

This puts Kennedy on the spot in a way that was familiar to President Roosevelt, who could seldom please John L. Lewis. Just at present there is a bill waiting for action in the House of Representatives which would favor coal by imposing much stricter limitations on imports of foreign residual oil to the United States. Thirty-nine Congressmen have introduced the bill by offering identical copies for reference to the Ways and Means Committee, and 150 more Congressmen have written letters to the House Speaker saying they agree with the substance of the proposed legislation.

This should mean a victory of coal over residual oil in the House by Christmas — and presumably in the Senate in early 1964. Time enough for the elections.

However, a mere victory over residual oil, a fuel which is liked incidentally by Kennedy's own New England, will hardly put all those Appalachian miners to work. To get the coal country solidly in line, Kennedy's only real hope is to increase coal exports. This demands a concerted effort to get European nations to reduce the stiff tariffs that keep our cheap coal out of foreign markets.

Chicken tariffs aren't it with coal tariffs when it comes to presenting John F. Kennedy with a headache. For as coal goes, so could everything go that Kennedy prizes. The tantalizing thing about this is that Europe may not care enough to help.

A FRATERNITY house in Michigan went in for a thorough spring cleaning, which involved sending all the window curtains to the laundry. This brought an angry note from the sorority across the road. "Gentlemen," it read, "We must insist that you put back the curtains in your upstairs windows immediately. We are not interested in a course in anatomy."

Back went this note from the fraternity brothers: "Dear Girls: This course is not compulsory."

I'd give most of my fortune for a better personality." Why does Mr. Getty continue working very, very hard? "After all," he was reminded, "You're not going to be able to take your money with you." "That's a good thing, I guess. It might be a burden," he nodded — and rushed back to his office.

Whoopers Could Help Selves

There are glad tidings from the Arkansas National Wildlife Refuge in Texas, where 31 whooping cranes have arrived safely after their perilous 2,500-mile journey from summer nesting grounds in Canada.

Of all dwindling bird families, the whooping crane has received the greatest attention and tender loving care, perhaps because of their spectacular appearance and blaring, trumpet-like call. The United States and Canadian governments, state and provincial wildlife agencies and private conservationists have spent millions of dollars to help them in the fight for survival.

But many persons have had the feeling right along that, if people would just give them a chance, the whoopers would eventually get around to helping themselves.

The Business World

By Sam Dawson

NEW YORK (AP)—The fairly lush flow of cash through corporate tills is one of the main reasons business executives are so confident these days.

Cash flow is different from net earnings. These profits after taxes have been setting new highs for many corporations and inspiring larger dividend payouts. But cash flow, too, has played its part—and perhaps an even more dollar and cents one—in the pleasant outpouring of extra year end payments to stockholders in many companies.

Corporate cash flow is technically defined as retained earnings plus depreciation.

But from the company treasurer's practical point of view it is what he has left over after settling operating expenses including taxes and paying current dividends.

And the sum this year is pretty big for lots of companies. All in all, cash is flowing at better than a $41-billion rate in 1963. The year before it was $39 billion. And in 1961 it was $33 billion.

This year net profits after taxes is running around $26 billion. Cash flow is often put right to work in many ways. But it also helps to build up corporate nest eggs. And another reason so many businessmen are fairly satisfied with current positions and confident of future prospects is that today corporate cash on hand and assets readily convertible into cash totals $74 billion. That could tide business viewed as a whole, over any economic shoals for a spell.

Retained profits—what a business has left from gross earnings after paying taxes and dividends—provides only about a fifth of today's cash flow. More and more the actual cash is provided by depreciation. This is what can be set up on the books for the wear and tear on plant and equipment.

And this year the cash flow has been helped by the federal government's relaxed rules on figuring depreciation.

Perhaps 1.5 billion of the increased depreciation allowance is due to more liberal guidelines set forth by the tax collectors. And another billion may have been added by the 7 per cent depreciation tax incentive Congress voted to encourage investment.

Cash flow would eventually be increased if Congress passes the proposed lower tax rates on corporate income. But little effect is expected next year, since the same bill calls for a speedup in tax payments, meaning that in 1964 corporations would pay out about as much cash for taxes even if rates are lower.

can take as many as 500 dot pictures a minute.

The future of diagnostic and therapeutic medicine has new and unlimited horizons. The application of the knowledge of nuclear physics for man's well-being has exciting possibilities. Scientific investigators are using minimal exposure of patients to radioactive substances to keep them well within the safe limits.

The last two decades that produced the atomic era also produced the anti-biotic era, the era of heart surgery, the era of vaccination against polio and measles and the era of medical progress unmatched in the history of man.

Within the framework of these accomplishments lies the hope that should dispel the darkening clouds of fear.

Court Defers Decision in Sit-in Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has deferred for at least 60 days a ruling on the five sit-in cases now pending before it.

And there was a possible indication that when it does rule it will go to the heart of the constitutional question raised in connection with the cases.

This is: Can a private businessman who wishes to exclude persons of one race from his business invoke state trespass laws to enforce his policy?

What the Supreme Court did Monday was request in an order that the Justice Department submit its views on the constitutional issue. The high court divided 5-4 in making the request.

The majority was made up of Chief Justice Warren and Justices Douglas, Brennan, Stewart and Goldberg. The dissenters were Justices Black, Clark, Harlan and White.

When the cases were argued before the Supreme Court last month, Solicitor General Archibald Cox, speaking for the Justice Department, contended there was no need for the high court to consider the constitutional issue in these cases.

Cox said the cases could be decided on the narrower ground of whether the sit-in demonstrators had been given proper notice that their activities were alleged to be illegal. He said he would, however, submit views on the constitutional issue if the court desired.

Since the Court decided Monday that it does want an expression from Cox on the constitutional issue, it seems a reasonable presumption that the majority feels at least at this time, that the cases should not be decided on the narrower ground.

The order allowed 30 days for Cox to submit the requested views. The states involved in the five cases—Maryland, Florida and South Carolina — will then have 30 days in which to file reply briefs.

Thus, a ruling is deferred until some time next year and is unlikely before February at the earliest.

Red China Believes Gains Sure in Southeast Asia

TOKYO (AP) — Red China seems confident of making a major penetration in Southeast Asia despite costly U.S. attempts to defend that strategic area from communism.

The target is Cambodia, a nation next door to Laos, Thailand and South Viet Nam, where the United States has invested heavily in blood and money.

Peking broadcasts boast that Cambodia's chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, has pledged close cooperation with Communist China.

Sihanouk has explained he is grateful for "disinterested" Chinese help at a time when so-called imperialist nations are threatening him, Peking broadcasts say. Almost daily, the radio describes "friendly and cordial" talks between Chinese and Cambodian officials.

If the Chinese are able to establish a base of operations in Cambodia, all Southeast Asia will be more seriously threatened.

Cambodia's long, ill-defined borders with its three neighbors are almost impossible to close to infiltrators. South Viet Nam claims Viet Cong guerrillas now use Cambodia as a base for raids across the border.

Three major roads run across Cambodia from the South Vietnamese capital of Saigon. Two end in Thailand, the other in Laos.

Prince Sihanouk has broken diplomatic relations with South Viet Nam and Thailand, charging both with border violations and plots against what he calls Cambodia's neutrality.

In recent months, he has shown signs of fear of getting caught up in the type of war that is drenching Viet Nam in blood.

In a newspaper article last September, Sihanouk expressed feeling that communism already has triumphed in Viet Nam and the rest of what once was known as French Indochina.

The prince appeared worried that Cambodia—about six million persons, 88,780 square miles—would be unable to stay afloat in the sea of crisis surrounding it. He complained that American policies were a key reason for the supposed Communist triumph.

Shadley Earns Military Honor At Purdue U.

Robert Shadley, a senior at Purdue University, has been named a distinguished military student at the West Lafayette, Ind. school.

Shadley, a graduate of Circleville High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Shadley 324 E. Mound St. He was a member of the basketball, baseball and track teams while a student at CHS.

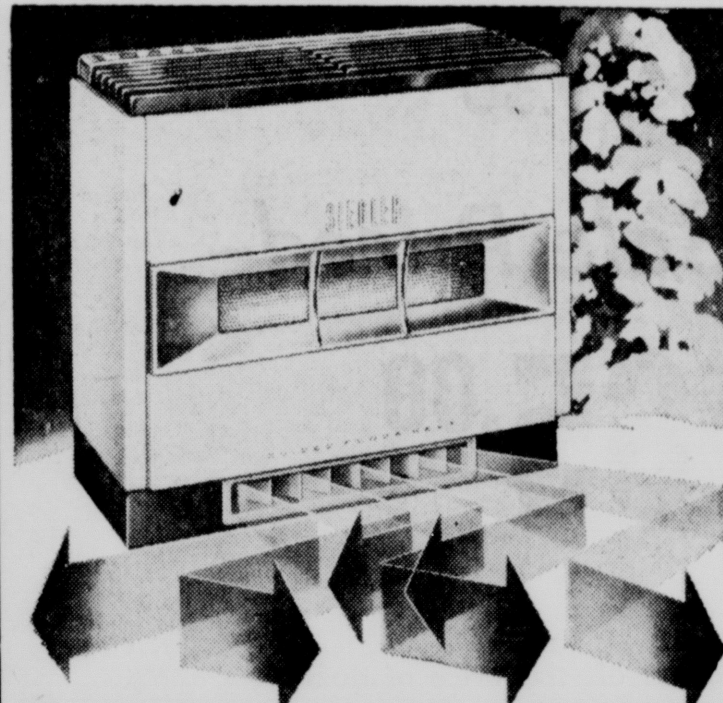

His distinguished military honor, awarded under the Reserve Officers Training Corps program at Purdue, is based on academic as well as military achievement. Leadership, character and moral traits are among the prime factors considered.

The military honor will offer Shadley the opportunity to apply for a commission in the regular army of the United States.

The distinguished student list was announced by Col. T. R. Bruce, professor of military science and tactics at Purdue. The selections were approved by the president of the University.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather outlook:

Skies cleared over much of Ohio Monday night and patchy, heavy fog formed in many areas.

Shortly before daybreak today most stations in Southern and Central Ohio reported visibility near zero.

Temperatures varied greatly depending on the cloudiness and fog. At daybreak Toledo and Cincinnati were the coldest with 30, Dayton had 42, Youngstown 43 and Bellaire 44.

After the morning fog lifts, fair weather is in store for the state today with afternoon temperatures in the 50s.

A low pressure system in the Oklahoma Panhandle is expected to move eastward, bringing an increase in cloudiness and a chance of some rain to Ohio Wednesday.

Temperatures will change very little through Wednesday.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration has expressed serious doubt about the Russian leaders' good judgment in testing the nerve of the West particularly that of the United States.

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara put it this way in a talk Monday night: "I do not regard the present Communist leaders as wholly reckless in action."

"But recent experience, in Cuba and, on a lesser scale, in Berlin, has not persuaded me that I can predict with confidence the sorts of challenge that Communist leaders will come to think prudent and profitable."

In addition, this McNamara talk before the Economic Club of New York had an unusually tough tone for the Kennedy administration which has tried to avoid sabre-rattling.

The secretary compared American and Russian military power and flatly claimed nuclear superiority for the United States. He said the Communists have sought to avoid a big war with the West.

This doesn't mean they won't try smaller challenges if they think they can get away with them. What if they try them, as they did in Cuba and at Berlin?

McNamara gave them a warning: The best way to stop them from the smaller adventures is to assure them such short-of-all-out-war tries would meet "prompt, effective military" response.

In short: Stop them cold and let them decide to back off or keep pushing into the big war they want to avoid.

Much of McNamara's talk was devoted to American nuclear superiority, for example: "The Soviets are estimated to have today only a fraction as many intercontinental missiles as we do." But he acknowledged the Russians are a big threat to Europe, with their hundreds of intermediate and medium-range ballistic missiles.

The Russians recently acted up, creating tensions in Europe and here, when they blockaded American troop trucks on the autobahn in East Germany before letting them through to Berlin.

This was a sudden and ugly show of Soviet force after what had seemed slightly improved American-Russian relations.

The Kennedy administration may have intended the McNamara talk to be a reminder to the Russians not to get too nutty — as they were in Cuba and seem to have been on the autobahn — or push too hard.

At no place in his talk, however, did McNamara suggest that war with Russia would be a one-way street, with the Soviets on the receiving end alone.

He stressed the need to recognize that "strategic nuclear acts" would under all foreseeable circumstances be bilateral — and highly destructive to both sides."

Court Defers Decision in Sit-in Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court has deferred for at least 60 days a ruling on the five sit-in cases now pending before it.

And there was a possible indication that when it does rule it will go to the heart of the constitutional question raised in connection with the cases.

This is: Can a private businessman who wishes to exclude persons of one race from his business invoke state trespass laws to enforce his policy?

What the Supreme Court did Monday was request in an order that the Justice Department submit its views on the constitutional issue. The high court divided 5-4 in making the request.

The majority was made up of Chief Justice Warren and Justices Douglas, Brennan, Stewart and Goldberg. The dissenters were Justices Black, Clark, Harlan and White.

When the cases were argued before the Supreme Court last month, Solicitor General Archibald Cox, speaking for the Justice Department, contended there was no need for the high court to consider the constitutional issue in these cases.

Cox said the cases could be decided on the narrower ground of whether the sit-in demonstrators had been given proper notice that their activities were alleged to be illegal. He said he would, however, submit views on the constitutional issue if the court desired.

Since the Court decided Monday that it does want an expression from Cox on the constitutional issue, it seems a reasonable presumption that the majority feels at least at this time, that the cases should not be decided on the narrower ground.

The order allowed 30 days for Cox to submit the requested views. The states involved in the five cases—Maryland, Florida and South Carolina — will then have 30 days in which to file reply briefs.

Thus, a ruling is deferred until some time next year and is unlikely before February at the earliest.

Red China Believes Gains Sure in Southeast Asia

TOKYO (AP) — Red China seems confident of making a major penetration in Southeast Asia despite costly U.S. attempts to defend that strategic area from communism.

The target is Cambodia, a nation next door to Laos, Thailand and South Viet Nam, where the United States has invested heavily in blood and money.

Peking broadcasts boast that Cambodia's chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, has pledged close cooperation with Communist China.

Sihanouk has explained he is grateful for "disinterested" Chinese help at a time when so-called imperialist nations are threatening him, Peking broadcasts say. Almost daily, the radio describes "friendly and cordial" talks between Chinese and Cambodian officials.

If the Chinese are able to establish a base of operations in Cambodia, all Southeast Asia will be more seriously threatened.

Cambodia's long, ill-defined borders with its three neighbors are almost impossible to close to infiltrators. South Viet Nam claims Viet Cong guerrillas now use Cambodia as a base for raids across the border.

Three major roads run across Cambodia from the South Vietnamese capital of Saigon. Two end in Thailand, the other in Laos.

Prince Sihanouk has broken diplomatic relations with South Viet Nam and Thailand, charging both with border violations and plots against what he calls Cambodia's neutrality.

In recent months, he has shown signs of fear of getting caught up in the type of war that is drenching Viet Nam in blood.

In a newspaper article last September, Sihanouk expressed feeling that communism already has triumphed in Viet Nam and the rest of what once was known as French Indochina.

The prince appeared worried that Cambodia—about six million persons, 88,780 square miles—would be unable to stay afloat in the sea of crisis surrounding it. He complained that American policies were a key reason for the supposed Communist triumph.

"Our American friends are remarkable organizers, brilliant technicians and excellent

Dear Abby: Shades of Criticism!

DEAR ABBY: Just before report-card time, our sixth grade teacher told us to write a paragraph grading Her on her personality and teaching ability. She said we could tell about her good points and bad points and nothing would be held against us. Well, I thought she really meant it, so I went ahead and told her what I thought of her. I guess maybe I didn't say enough about her good points and kind of went overboard on her bad points, because my mother just got a letter from the teacher telling everything I wrote, and saying how horrible it was of me. Now my mother is making me write an "I'm sorry" letter to the teacher. Do you think it was fair of this teacher? Also should I have to

Seasonal Weather Slows Work at New Golf Course

FINAL CLIPPING — Don Collins, owner and operator of the new Upper Lansdowne Golf Links, gives his greens a final clipping before winter. Although a lack of moisture has slowed germination of grass seed in the fairways, the bent grass on the greens is off to a good start. A well and pond in front of his house have provided ample water for irrigation of tees and greens. Collins anticipates opening the course in May.

Seasonal weather has to a certain extent halted work on the Upper Lansdowne Golf Links being built on the Don Collins farm in Walnut Twp. Actual construction of the golf course was completed this summer. Seeding of the greens, tees and fairways was finished in August. The irrigation system was used for the final time this season and drained last week, Collins reported.

However, Collins does not anticipate a lazy winter. His bad weather chores will include building benches to place at strategic spots on the course for the comfort of golfers. He also will make signs for all tees and greens.

Not the least of his winter duties will be to lay plans for special activities which he hopes to be able to schedule during the season.

COLLINS currently is thinking of a grand opening for the course late in the spring. Additional events include a senior citizens' day a ladies day and

Tennessee, Georgia Tech Are Holding Hands Again

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The world will be happy to know that all is sweetness and light on the southern football front once again. Tennessee Athletic Director Bob Woodruff and Georgia Tech football Coach Bobby Dodd have decided to make up.

They had a fuss of several weeks duration going on before the hand-holding started. It all began when Woodruff charged Dodd of using an illegal "sleeping" play in the Tech-Tennessee game. Dodd angrily denied the allegation.

Relations were strained—in fact, the air was blue—for a while. That's all over now.

"I went out to see Bobby this morning and we talked about several things, like 'sleepers' and contracts," Woodruff said Monday. "We signed a contract to extend the Tennessee-Tech series through 1970, so you can see we are on friendly terms."

While most major bowl officials and successful major college coaches are panting after one another, Michigan State's Duffy Daugherty and Mississippi's Johnny Vaught are playing it a little coy.

Mississippi, unbeaten, once tied and third in the nation, is a leading candidate for the Sugar Bowl. Vaught, however, says if he had his druthers, he'd druther the Orange, which is committed to the Big Eight championship.

That will be either Oklahoma or Nebraska. Each has Negro players, and such a game would conflict with Mississippi's unwritten law against integrated athletic competition.

"If we get an invitation," Vaught said, "a decision will have to be made. I've got people to answer to."

And Daugherty, of all things, says there are things more important than going to the Rose Bowl. His Spartans are in a fight with Illinois for the Big Ten title.

"I think the championship is more important than the Rose Bowl trip," he said, then hastily me—I'd like to go to the Rose added: "Don't misunderstand Bowl."

Of course, the fact that the title and the trip are one and the same thing is probably just coincidental.

And on the subject of bowls, West Chester State College players — PLAYERS, mind you — voted not to accept any post season bowl bids. They said the extended practice would interfere with their studies.

San Diego Paces AFL on Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — The streaking San Diego Chargers and the Boston Patriots continued to show the way in the American Football League's team statistics.

The Chargers maintained their lead on offense and the Patriots on defense, although Boston allowed 24 points to Kansas City in a tie game.

Buffalo outgained the San Diego team, despite a 23-13 defeat at the hands of the Chargers, and edged closer in the season statistics. San Diego's offense has averaged 376.4 yards per game, compared to 362.6 for Buffalo. San Diego's rushing average of 151.4 yards was tops and Buffalo led in passing with a 241-yard average.

Redlegs Set Opener For Next April 13

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds will open the 1964 National League season April 13 against the Houston Colts, it was announced today.

The Reds' 81 home games will be played on 73 dates and the team will have a record-breaking 55 night games. The previous high was 51 games last season.

Michigan To Be Vital Test for OSU

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's Buckeyes will go against Michigan at Ann Arbor Saturday with a gloomy "first" on the line for Coach Woody Hayes.

A loss to the Wolverines would chalk up the first time in Hayes' 13 seasons at OSU that a team of his has compiled a three game losing streak. And a loss would give Ohio State a 1-1 season total, second poorest to the 3-5-1 record in 1959 under Hayes.

The Wolverines—described by Ohio State scouts as a rejuvenated team—have scored nine touchdowns in the last three games—the same number the Bucks have manufactured in eight contests. But Michigan has a 3-3-2 record overall and 2-2-2 in the Big Ten, while Ohio has a 4-3-1 season record and is 3-1-1 in the loop.

The Buckeyes again this week will have to contend with an Ohio-born quarterback. Last weekend, Tom Myers of Troy directed Northwestern in its 17-8 shocker over Ohio. The Wolverines feature quarterback Bo Timberlake of Franklin.

Six of the 11 Michigan starters are Ohio products, including two other backfielders, halfback Dick Rindfuss of Niles and fullback Mel Anthony of Cincinnati. John Henderson of Dayton is the Wolves ace pass-catcher at end, Dick Hahn of Norton is at guard and Brian Patchen of Steubenville is at center.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Stella I. May who passed away 18 years ago today, Nov. 19th 1945.
Those whom we love go out of sight but never out of mind.
And are always cherished in the hearts of those they leave behind.
Sadly missed by husband and children.

Speedy Scot Is Voted As Top Harness Horse

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Speedy Scot, fastest three-year-old trotter of all time, has been voted "Harness Horse of the Year" in the nationwide poll of experts conducted by the U.S. Trotting Assn. in cooperation with the U.S. Harness Writers Assn. The son of Speedster-Scotch Love, owned by Castleton Farm of Lexington Ky., and trained by Ralph Baldwin, drew first place support from 102 of the 180 who participated in the coast-to-coast balloting. Overtrick collected 53 first place votes, while Su Mac Lad last year's Harness Horse of the Year, garnered seven, one less than given to Duke Rodney.

Aces Open Cage Season On Friday

McCafferty Cites Lack of Experience In His Candidates

Amanda-Clearcreek opens its 1974-75 basketball season Friday at Centralia High School.

The Aces play football and under the rules of the Ohio High School Athletic Assn. may not begin cage practice until Nov. 1. They may not play games until Nov. 20, the earliest date for cage previews and games.

Amanda-Clearcreek will lack experience this year, according to veteran cage mentor Kermit McCafferty.

Jerry Cole, a 6-foot 3-inch junior is the only returning starter from last year's team that finished with eight wins and ten losses.

DON SHARP, the only experienced center, will miss much of the first half of the season with a broken right arm, sustained during football season.

Lost by graduation were Dave Barr, Glenn Stalder, Bob Hooker, Wendell Lovett, John Good and Bill Harmon.

McCafferty feels the Aces have the ability to develop into a sound basketball squad and should have a more balanced offense this year.

He noted candidates have shown a lot of desire and good team spirit in early season practices.

The varsity roster includes three seniors — Dean Barr, Randy Abbott and Bill Smith. Barr is a 6-foot 2-inch center prospect, Abbott, 5-feet 10-inches tall, is a guard candidate while Smith, 6-feet 1-inch tall, will be a forward.

Juniors include Cole, a forward, Sharp, Larry Sykes, 5'9", guard; Rick Williams, 5'8", guard; Larry Hoffman, 6', center; Dean Kougher, 6', forward. The varsity roster lists two sophomores — Mike Labonte and Phil Smith.

Browns Chief Undecided on Quarterback

CLEVELAND (AP) — Coach Blanton Collier of the Cleveland Browns says he has not decided whether Frank Ryan or Jim Ninowski will start at quarterback against the Dallas Cowboys here Sunday.

He may have given a clue, however, when he said Monday night that Ryan simply was given a rest last Sunday. Ninowski handled the signal calling job against the St. Louis Cardinals.

It was Ninowski's first start since he suffered a shoulder separation at mid-season last year. He had made only two brief appearances this season prior to the St. Louis game.

After viewing the game film, Collier wasn't blaming Ninowski for the Browns' loss to the Cardinals.

The Browns had the ball six times in the first half of Sunday's game.

"We scored the first time we had the ball," Collier said. "The next five times we gave up the ball on errors."

"There were 13 third down situations. Four were between one and three yards. We made three of them. The other nine were more than three yards. We call these possession plays. We were successful on only two of those—and only in the last quarter."

Texas Keeps Top Rating

Navy Ranks 2nd, Mississippi 3rd

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Here's one for the boys in the back shop.

The printers can take last week's college football poll—the one with unbeaten Texas on the top — simply shuffle two teams in the middle of the pack, and that's The Associated Press Top Ten for this week.

The 51 sports writers and broadcasters in this week's poll made only one switch in the standings, after a weekend in which all 10 teams won.

Texas grabbed 45 first place votes to lead the list for the sixth straight week. No. 2 Navy got the other six.

There are rumblings about matching the top two in the Cotton Bowl. Texas has already sewed up the host spot, with only Texas A&M on Thanksgiving Day standing between the Longhorns and their first unbeaten season since 1920.

Navy plays Army Nov. 30, and a victory would probably bring a rash of bowl bids, including one from the Cotton.

Texas collected 503 points in the poll, on the usual 10-9-8-etc., voting. Navy had 423.

Mississippi, unbeaten but once tied, was third with 359, followed by Michigan State with 305.

Pittsburgh, impressive in a 28-0 victory over Army moved up to fifth, switching places with Oklahoma.

Then came Alabama, Illinois Auburn and Nebraska, right where they were last week.

The top ten teams with first place votes in parentheses, season records and points:

Niles Crowned State Champion

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Red Dragons of Niles McKinley today climbed on the throne as kings of Ohio high school football for 1963.

Coach Tony Mason's potent proteges, with only a scoreless tie with Cincinnati Roger Bacon marring their 10-game record, won handily in the Associated Press poll of sports editors which names the champion and winner of the Rutgers Hall of Fame Trophy.

Massillon's once-beaten Tigers, winners of the title nine times since the poll was inaugurated in 1947, finished second, and Sandusky's Blue Streaks were third.

The Tigers, leaders in the ratings a week ago were idle last weekend while Niles wound up with a rousing 36-6 victory over Warren Harding Panthers. Massillon had beaten Warren earlier 22-8.

Niles McKinley won the crown in 1961 and Massillon was runner-up that year, too. In 1960 Massillon nosed out Niles for the laurels. The Dragons with their current conquest over the state's schoolboy gridders, grab a second leg on the Rutgers Trophy which must be won three times for permanent possession. Massillon has one tucked away.

A total of 53 sports editors, participated in the poll—and 17 of them named Niles as their No. 1 choice while Massillon and Sandusky had eight top-spot votes.

On the 10-9-8-etc. voting basis, with each editor picking 10 top teams, Niles piled up 389 points to Massillon's 327. A week ago Massillon was nine points out front.

Shown are the first-place votes in parentheses, the poll points on a 10-9-8-etc. basis, and the won-lost-tied records of the leaders:

Speedy Scot Is Voted As Top Harness Horse

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Speedy Scot, fastest three-year-old trotter of all time, has been voted "Harness Horse of the Year" in the nationwide poll of experts conducted by the U.S. Trotting Assn. in cooperation with the U.S. Harness Writers Assn. The son of Speedster-Scotch Love, owned by Castleton Farm of Lexington Ky., and trained by Ralph Baldwin, drew first place support from 102 of the 180 who participated in the coast-to-coast balloting. Strong backing also went to Overtrick three-year-old pacing star owned by Mrs. Leonard J. Buck Overtrick collected 53 first place votes, while Su Mac Lad last year's Harness Horse of the Year, garnered seven, one less than given to Duke Rodney.

With points tabulated on a 5-3-2-1 basis, Speedy Scot won the top honor with 1,249 points while Overtrick received 381. Meadow Skipper, who battled Overtrick for three-year-old pacing laurels all season, got only four first-place votes but ranked third in total points with 309. Duke Rodney with 233 and Su Mac Lad with 205 rounded out the top five.

Speedy Scot swept the Triple Crown events of trotting—the Yonkers Futurity, Hambletonian and Kentucky Futurity. The rangy colt added the Dexter Cup to close his season and make it a "grand slam" of major colt stakes in his division.

His record shows 13 victories in 15 starts this season with one second. The second came in the first heat of the Hambletonian when Floris set a world record in outpacing Speedy Scot. The latter remedied this by winning the next two heats to take the Hambletonian, and a month later regained the world record with an almost unbelievable 1:56.4 mile at the Lexington Trots. His earnings for the year stand at $244,252, second highest ever earned by a standardbred in a single season.

Speedy Scot was a near-unanimous choice in the divisional voting for best three-year-old trotter, picking up 166 of the 180 votes. Overtrick also was an easy winner as best three-year-old pacer with 146 of the 179 votes. Trader Horn stable's Speedy Count got 129 of 175 votes as best two-year-old trotter, while Castleton Farm's Race Time outscored Vice Hanover, 78-42, for leadership as top two-year-old pacer. Henry T. Adios repeated as Aged Pacer of the Year and Duke Rodney won Aged Trotter of the Year laurels.

Juniors include Cole, a forward, Sharp, Larry Sykes, 5'9", guard; Rick Williams, 5'8", guard; Larry Hoffman, 6', center; Dean Kougher, 6', forward. The varsity roster lists two sophomores — Mike Labonte and Phil Smith.

Birth Control Tutor Slated For Hearing

CLEVELAND (AP) — The story of a mother charged with contributing to the delinquency of her 16-year-old daughter by teaching her about birth control methods will start to unfold today.

That is the trial date for Mrs. Virginia McLaughlin, 33, of Cleveland. It was set Monday by Juvenile Court Judge Angelo side. Mrs. McLaughlin remains free on $500 bond.

The daughter has had three illegitimate children over the last two years and is now undergoing psychiatric tests at the Cuyahoga County Detention Home, court officials say.

Judge Gagliardi ordered the charges against the mother on the basis of her statement in a recent court session with her daughter. He quoted the mother as saying then, "I told my daughter where to buy contraceptives and how to use them but she still got pregnant."

The judge said as far as he knows there is no juvenile law specifically covering the giving of birth control information.

Probe Drug Store Burglary

The investigation of a Kingston drug store burglary was continued today by the village marshal and the Ross County Sheriff's Department.

Deputy Marshall Al McCain reported that an entry at Mowery's Drug Store Sunday night netted thieves about $550 in cash and checks in addition to an undetermined amount of narcotics.

McCain said the burglars made off with a safe containing the $550. According to Dick Am, manager of the drug store the vault weighed more than 700 pounds.

Method of entry had not been determined by investigators. However, McCain said the London Bureau of Criminal Investigation will assist Marshall Tom Kelly, Ross County Deputy Wendell Counts and himself in the probe.

Business Briefs

Returning this week from Kansas City was Albert Aebersold, comptroller for South-Central Rural Electric Cooperative, Inc.

Aebersold, an employee of South-Central for more than 20 years, has been attending a three-day workshop, Nov. 14-16, sponsored by the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association.

The workshop conducted by the management firm of Rogers, Slade, and Hill, of New York City, dealt with electronic data processing management. Since South-Central has ordered IBM data processing equipment for installation this coming spring, Aebersold's attendance will be helpful in determining usage of the new equipment.

The management workshop explained to personnel from rural electric cooperatives all over the country how electronically processed data can be put to work, and cataloged the many uses to which it can be put.

Aebersold, comptroller for South-Central for the past eight years, resides in Lancaster.

Views on TV-Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The average star in a television series is likely to complain mildly or violently (depending how long he's been on the treadmill) about his long hours and tough work.

But he doesn't know what fatigue is until he has been on a concentrated public appearance tour. Joey Bishop still is healing from a recent five-day shortie along the East Coast to promote his NBC series.

Here, considerably edited, was his schedule, starting in Washington, D.C., immediately after a plane trip from Hollywood:

Monday — Two news conferences; two television interviews; two radio interviews plus time out for some audio and video promotion tapes arriving 8:30 a.m.; two television interviews; two radio interviews; one news conference; late plane flight to New York.

Wednesday — Closed circuit television news conference with writers all over the country; appearance on "Missing Links"; time out for a conference about a Las Vegas nightclub appearance with some of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Thursday — Appeared on "Today Show," taped a week's supply of "Match Games" as panelist; submitted to a telephone interview; recorded a "Monitor" radio interview; had a face-to-face interview; appeared on the "Tonight Show."

Friday — Walked on "Say When"; walked on "Concentration"; submitted to several interviews; attended a business meeting with his sponsors and advertising agencies; caught plane to Hollywood.

"Well, toward the end I did get to feeling a little tired and confused," Bishop admitted. "And a couple of times I sort of forgot what town I was in. But if it helped the show, I'm glad I did it."

ABC's "Burke's Law," a so-so success, may be about a year ahead of the next TV trend. There are a number of signs that next season, the larger-than-life hero, styled after novelist Ian Fleming's James Bond, may be as common as today's TV doctors.

NBC has plans for "Solo," created by Fleming himself, while CBS has a stake in an adventure series tentatively called "Mark Dolphin," with Robert Horton as a secret super agent.

Rod Serling of "Twilight Zone" also expects to make a pilot out of Hong Kong soon for a show called "Jeopardy Run" to be shot at romantic locations the world around.

Missing Bank Teller Surrenders to Police

CLEVELAND (AP) — Dan Edward Berry, a bank teller who had been missing nearly four weeks, surrendered at the U.S. Marshal's office Monday to answer charges of embezzling $5,850 from the Uptown branch of the Society National Bank.

U. S. District Court Judge Girard E. Kalbfleisch, sitting as U. S. commissioner, set a hearing for Friday and released Berry under $1,000 bond.

Seriousness Of Idle List Is Debated

The racial danger is cited by President Howard Johnson of the Atlantic Steel Co. in Atlanta. He says Negroes have for decades made up 25 to 30 per cent of his work force — as they have in the general population locally.

"But as we go to new machines," Johnson says, "the colored are losing a little ground, I'm afraid."

They tend to have the kind of low-skill jobs that are being eliminated, he says.

(President George Meany of the AFL-CIO has termed automation a curse, saying industry is in a "mad race" to install push-button machines without proper regard for the impact on society.)

Some other businessmen say it is easy to exaggerate the job-destroying threats of automation.

Chrysler's Townsend says his firm has many operations that could run almost unaided by humans. But humans are by far the cheapest way to make the changes required to provide the variety of style and model buyers demand.

Some businessmen are taking a new look at the people previously displaced and added to the rolls of longtime, hard-core unemployment. There were fears that these workers would be left behind, even in booming times, because of low education, low skills or racial disadvantages.

However, many of them have been snapped up in the current auto upsurge, says Woodrow Ginsberg, research director for the AFL-CIO United Auto Workers Union in Detroit.

For those who can't find a place in technical society, efforts to expand openings have been proposed.

S. B. Fuller, president of Fuller Products Co., a Chicago cosmetics firm, proposes that the cost of hiring servants be made tax deductible.

It would make it possible for more people to afford maids, gardeners, chauffeurs and butlers, he says, and perhaps generate two million jobs.

Many say some wage and hour restrictions should be waived for teen-agers to make hiring them easier. It would help tide them over to adult years teach them work habits and help finance additional education, they insist.

Few people seem to believe unemployment will disappear soon as a major problem. Its roots in basic economics are too deep, and there's little agreement on final solutions.

Man Kills Wife; Cop Kills Man

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Police gunfire killed an Akron rubber worker Monday after he had shot his estranged wife to death.

The shooting of Mrs. Rosalind Vanriper, 42, and her husband, William, took place at Mrs. Steve Tanaska's home, where Mrs. Vanriper was babysitting for her sister.

Charlene Whetzel, 18, daughter of Mrs. Tanaska, said Vanriper went to the Tanaska home looking for his wife and they started arguing in the basement.

The girl called police and patrolman George Wagner answered the alarm. He saw the couple in the basement struggling for a pistol when he entered a side door and called from the land for them to drop the weapon.

Instead, police said, Vanriper shot the woman and then pointed the gun at Wagner. The patrolman fired twice, killing Vanriper.

Realtor Deals Ruled Valid

But Court Silent On Future Course

CINCINNATI (AP)—All those thousands of contracts drawn up by real estate agents are valid —but nobody knows whether the salesmen should go on filling them out.

Three judges of the 1st State District Court of Appeals ruled that a contract's validity does not depend on the occupation of its author. But Monday's ruling did not touch on the contention of lawyers' groups the persons who draw up contracts are in effect practicing law without having been admitted to the bar.

The ruling means a retrial of the dispute between Mr. and Mrs. Herman Frank of Withamsville and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moore of Cincinnati.

Judge M. Dale Osborne of Clermont County Common Pleas Court started an uproar among realtors and lawyers Sept. 19 when he ruled the Franks contract to sell their property to the Moores was enforceable. The judge said the agreement was void because the real estate salesman changed some of the wording in a contract form.

Both realtors' groups and bar associations filed briefs as friends of the court when the case was appealed.

Judge C. Watson Hovey wrote in the ruling, "The court may not punish or reprimand an alleged violation of the realtor's license by refusing to recognize the rights of the contracting parties. The litigants cannot be expected to be aware of the niceties of distinction between the rights of the realtor and the rights of an attorney."

Judges Richard H. Hildebrand and Bert H. Long joined in the decision.

Birth Control Tutor Slated For Hearing

CLEVELAND (AP) — The story of a mother charged with contributing to the delinquency of her 16-year-old daughter by teaching her about birth control methods will start to unfold today.

That is the trial date for Mrs. Virginia McLaughlin, 33, of Cleveland. It was set Monday by Juvenile Court Judge Angelo side. Mrs. McLaughlin remains free on $500 bond.

The daughter has had three illegitimate children over the last two years and is now undergoing psychiatric tests at the Cuyahoga County Detention Home, court officials say.

Judge Gagliardi ordered the charges against the mother on the basis of her statement in a recent court session with her daughter. He quoted the mother as saying then, "I told my daughter where to buy contraceptives and how to use them but she still got pregnant."

The judge said as far as he knows there is no juvenile law specifically covering the giving of birth control information.

Probe Drug Store Burglary

The investigation of a Kingston drug store burglary was continued today by the village marshal and the Ross County Sheriff's Department.

Deputy Marshall Al McCain reported that an entry at Mowery's Drug Store Sunday night netted thieves about $550 in cash and checks in addition to an undetermined amount of narcotics.

McCain said the burglars made off with a safe containing the $550. According to Dick Arm, manager of the drug store the vault weighed more than 700 pounds.

Method of entry had not been determined by investigators. However, McCain said the London Bureau of Criminal Investigation will assist Marshall Tom Kelly, Ross County Deputy Wendell Counts and himself in the probe.

Business Briefs

Returning this week from Kansas City was Albert Aebersold, comptroller for South-Central Rural Electric Cooperative, Inc.

Aebersold, an employee of South-Central for more than 20 years, has been attending a three-day workshop, Nov. 14-16, sponsored by the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association.

The workshop conducted by the management firm of Rogers, Slade, and Hill, of New York City, dealt with electronic data processing management. Since South-Central has ordered IBM data processing equipment for installation this coming spring, Aebersold's attendance will be helpful in determining usage of the new equipment.

The management workshop explained to personnel from rural electric cooperatives all over the country how electronically processed data can be put to work, and cataloged the many uses to which it can be put.

Aebersold, comptroller for South-Central for the past eight years, resides in Lancaster.

Here, considerably edited, was his schedule, starting in Washington, D.C., immediately after a plane trip from Hollywood:

Monday — Two news conferences; two television interviews; two radio interviews plus time out for some audio and video promotion tapes.

arriving 8:30 a.m.; two television interviews; two radio interviews; one news conference; late plane flight to New York.

Wednesday — Closed circuit television news conference with writers all over the country; appearance on "Missing Links"; time out for a conference about a Las Vegas nightclub appearance with some of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Thursday — Appeared on "Today Show," taped a week's supply of "Match Games" as panelist; submitted to a telephone interview; recorded a "Monitor" radio interview; had a face-to-face interview; appeared on the "Tonight Show."

Friday — Walked on "Say When"; walked on "Concentration"; submitted to several interviews; attended a business meeting with his sponsors and advertising agencies; caught plane to Hollywood.

"Well, toward the end I did get to feeling a little tired and confused," Bishop admitted. "And a couple of times I sort of forgot what town I was in. But if it helped the show, I'm glad I did it."

ABC's "Burke's Law," a so-so success, may be about a year ahead of the next TV trend. There are a number of signs that next season, the larger-than-life hero, styled after novelist Ian Fleming's James Bond, may be as common as today's TV doctors.

NBC has plans for "Solo," created by Fleming himself, while CBS has a stake in an adventure series tentatively called "Mark Dolphin," with Robert Horton as a secret super agent.

Rod Serling of "Twilight Zone" also expects to make a pilot out of Hong Kong soon for a show called "Jeopardy Run" to be shot at romantic locations the world around.

Missing Bank Teller Surrenders to Police

CLEVELAND (AP) — Dan Edward Berry, a bank teller who had been missing nearly four weeks, surrendered at the U.S. Marshal's office Monday to answer charges of embezzling $5,850 from the Uptown branch of the Society National Bank.

U. S. District Court Judge Girard E. Kalbfleisch, sitting as U. S. commissioner, set a hearing for Friday and released Berry under $1,000 bond.

Seriousness Of Idle List Is Debated

The racial danger is cited by President Howard Johnson of the Atlantic Steel Co. in Atlanta. He says Negroes have for decades made up 25 to 30 per cent of his work force — as they have in the general population locally.

"But as we go to new machines," Johnson says, "the colored are losing a little ground, I'm afraid."

They tend to have the kind of low - skill jobs that are being eliminated, he says.

(President George Meany of the AFL-CIO has termed automation a curse, saying industry is in a "mad race" to install push - button machines without proper regard for the impact on society.)

Some other businessmen say it is easy to exaggerate the job-destroying threats of automation.

Chrysler's Townsend says his firm has many operations that could run almost unaided by humans. But humans are by far the cheapest way to make the changes required to make the variety of style and model buyers demand.

Some businessmen are taking a new look at the people previously displaced and added to the rolls of longtime, hard-core unemployment. There were fears that these workers would be left behind, even in booming times, because of low education, low skills or racial disadvantages.

However, many of them have been snapped up in the current auto upsurge, says Woodrow Ginsberg, research director for the AFL-CIO United Auto Workers Union in Detroit.

For those who can't find a place in technical society, efforts to expand openings have been proposed.

S. B. Fuller, president of Fuller Products Co., a Chicago cosmetics firm, proposes that the cost of hiring servants be made tax deductible.

It would make it possible for more people to afford maids, gardeners, chauffeurs and butlers, he says, and perhaps generate two million jobs.

Many say some wage and hour restrictions should be waived for teen-agers to make hiring them easier. It would help tide them over to adult years teach them work habits and help finance additional education, they insist.

Few people seem to believe unemployment will disappear soon as a major problem. Its roots in basic economics are too deep, and there's little agreement on final solutions.

State Clinic Patient Is Drowning Victim

CLEVELAND (AP) — Drowning was ruled the cause of death of a 41-year-old Cleveland State Hospital patient whose body was found in two inches of water beneath the Warner SE overpass Monday. Authorities said the man, Albert Melzak, apparently fell into Mill Creek from the overpass and struck his head.

Man Kills Wife; Cop Kills Man

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Police gunfire killed an Akron rubber worker Monday after he had shot his estranged wife to death.

The shooting of Mrs. Rosalind Vanriper, 42, and her husband, William, took place at Mrs. Steve Tanaska's home, where Mrs. Vanriper was babysitting for her sister.

Charlene Whetzel, 18, daughter of Mrs. Tanaska, said Vanriper went to the Tanaska home looking for his wife and they started arguing in the basement.

The girl called police and patrolman George Wagner answered the alarm. He saw the couple in the basement struggling for a pistol when he entered a side door and called from the land for them to drop the weapon.

Instead, police said, Vanriper shot the woman and then pointed the gun at Wagner. The patrolman fired twice, killing Vanriper.

Realtor Deals Ruled Valid

But Court Silent On Future Course

CINCINNATI (AP)—All those thousands of contracts drawn up by real estate agents are valid —but nobody knows whether the salesmen should go on filling them out.

Three judges of the 1st State District Court of Appeals ruled that a contract's validity does not depend on the occupation of its author. But Monday's ruling did not touch on the contention of lawyers' groups the persons who draw up contracts are in effect practicing law without having been admitted to the bar.

The ruling means a retrial of the dispute between Mr. and Mrs. Herman Frank of Withamsville and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moore of Cincinnati.

Judge M. Dale Osborne of Clermont County Common Pleas Court started an uproar among realtors and lawyers Sept. 19 when he ruled the Franks' contract to sell their property to the Moores was enforceable. The judge said the agreement was void because the real estate salesman changed some of the wording in a contract form.

Both realtors' groups and bar associations filed briefs as friends of the court when the case was appealed.

Judge C. Watson Hoyer wrote in the ruling, "The court may not punish or reprimand an alleged violation of the realtor's license by refusing to recognize the rights of the contracting parties. The litigants cannot be expected to be aware of the niceties of distinction between the rights of the realtor and the rights of an attorney."

Judges Richard H. Hildebrandt and Bert H. Long joined in the decision.
